EzRegistryCleaner PC/Windows

Registry Cleaner is powerful, fast and easy to use utility for cleaning up the Internet Explorer (IE) and Windows (W) registry. The program will clean out junk, invalid, temporary and obsolete entries from Windows registry. The program also cleans the internet explorer, windows shell and plug-ins caches. Program can show you where the junk entries are located in the registry. Why is the Registry so Complex? Every computer has a registry - this is a file on your hard drive that stores all the information necessary to run your computer. This information is critical for the computer to do what you tell it to do, like starting programs or responding to a web search. Our registry is basically a mass of information about the software, programs and hardware that make up your computer. It contains settings and information that your applications use and that your hardware contains. When the Registry becomes cluttered, many aspects of your computer become difficult to use. After using the registry, it is common to have the computer run slower, produce errors, or not work as it should. Please Note that all the options in the application are clearly marked. Preferred user interface is Windows standard interface with a modern UI. It offers information on the issue and request to the user and the ability to navigate the user to the screens where the user can specify the actions to perform. Please also note that some anti-malware applications, even if they are stated in their description to scan the registry, can actually just delete keys and values in the registry. They will not make your computer work properly, they won't clean your registry and it is not even possible to know what they did by just looking in the registry. So do NOT run an anti-malware application on the computer with which you want to fix the registry. It is much more reliable to use an application that cleans the registry rather than just deleting the problems in the registry. Be careful not to damage your computer while trying to clean the registry. If you see error messages like "The operation completed successfully" or "This action has caused your computer to experience problems", do not click on "OK" and then click on "Close" on any error message. You may actually cause more problems than the original problem. Cleaning the registry can be done in two ways. The first way is to go to Start> Run and type in regedit and click ok. The second way is to download the program to your hard disk, double click the program executable file and follow the
