How does the original in Russian differ from French or English? Avetra, or Aquatur (fr. Aquatrice, eng. Aqvatry) is a fictional ocean planet belonging to the Centauri system, which is the main character of the American science fiction fantasy television series, Battlestar Galactica, which started in 2003 and continued in 2005-2008. The planet's name translates to "water" and "naked" as opposed to other names in the television series. Usually the planet is depicted sitting on the surface of the water, or on the ocean, with a beach. Such a planet resembles the Earth in miniature, but the water here is more salty compared to the Earth, or has a different chemical composition. The planet has many seas and bays, as in the real Earth. Only unlike it from the Earth, there are no hurricanes and storms here, since it is isolated from water. It is separated from the Earth not by the horizon, but by an atmosphere consisting of hydrogen and helium. Particularly well in the series looks the moon "Aqua", made in black and white palette.
